RE KOW

In different religions, God can go by a different name to the one that we may know.

In Christianity, God is known by this name as well as the holy trinity. God is known as:

God the father, God the son and God the holy spirit.

In Islam, God is known by the Arabic name of Allah.

In both Christianity and Islam, there are prophets who help spread the word of God.

In Christianity, the most well-known is Jesus Christ, who was the son of God.

In Islam, the most well-known prophet is the Prophet Muhammad who was the final prophet of the Islamic faith.

A key question we can ask ourselves is:

DO I NEED TO SEE SOMETHING TO BELIEVE IN IT?

The simple answer, is no.

Many people believe in a God (or Gods) and they have this faith and belief despite never seeing a physical God. We have stories about the work of God as well as how God has inspired others to make the best of their lives in helping others.

We hear many of the teachings of God through a religious book. In Christianity, this book is the bible and in Islam, the Quran.

Many people show their belief in their God through their work, any many make an oath to God. In the Islamic faith, this oath to God is

In a religion, stories are used to pass on the teachings of God and how you should keep your faith in your God.

In the bible, the story of Saint Paul is an example of this. Paul was a man who did not like those who followed Jesus. Paul would find way to put them into prison or worse! One day, on the way to Damascus. Paul was knocked to the ground by a bright light and heard the voice of God. After this, Paul then devoted his life to God.

In some religions, there may be special items which are used during prayer. In Islam, a prayer mat is used when praying. In Christianity, someone may use rosary beads to help them pray.

Not only is a prayer mat used in prayer in the Islamic faith, but Muslims will face towards Mecca whilst praying.

In both faiths, there are many different prayers which may be used at different times and for different reasons. In Christianity, the most popular (and most well-known) prayer is the 'Lords Prayer'. This is used in many Christian services throughout the year.
